OFFICE OUTLOOK

Flight-to-quality demand continued to drive leasing in the CBD, led by financial services, technology and professional services occupiers moving into newer, more sustainable buildings. With limited new Core CBD supply until 2028, we expect Grade A rents to grow 1–3% over the next 12 months, while older stock may need larger incentives to compete.

Outlook for the next 12 months

CBRE Research's view of where Singapore's markets are heading.

01 Office

Rents forecast +1% to +3%

Limited new Core CBD completions until 2028 should keep Grade A vacancy below 5%. Expect continued consolidation into newer, high-specification buildings.

02 Industrial & Logistics

Rents forecast +1% to +2%

03 Retail

Prime rents forecast +0.5% to +1.5%

04 Residential

Prices forecast +2% to +4%

INDUSTRIAL & LOGISTICS OUTLOOK

Demand from third-party logistics operators, e-commerce fulfilment and high-value manufacturing kept prime logistics space in short supply. Vacancy tightened to 7.8% as most new completions were pre-committed. We expect rents for modern ramp-up facilities to rise 1-2% over the next 12 months.

RETAIL OUTLOOK

Prime retail rents edged up again on resilient tourist spending and a steady pipeline of food and beverage and experiential concepts. Retailers remain selective, favouring well-located, high-footfall units. We expect prime rents to grow 0.5–1.5% over the next 12 months.

RESIDENTIAL OUTLOOK

Private home prices rose 0.9% quarter-on-quarter, supported by well-received new launches and stable interest rates. New home sales reached 2,150 units in the quarter. With a healthy supply pipeline, we expect price growth to moderate to 2–4% over the next 12 months, while rents stay broadly stable.
